LAST MEET OF THE DUTCHESS HUNT CLUB. Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Nov. 30 (Special).—The Dutch-ess Hunt Club closed the season of cross-country riding this afternoon. The weather was cold and the roads were not in as good condition as they have been. The meet was at Union Corner, East Park, and the riders were A. Rgers, E. P. Rogers, Edward Tower, Robert Sanford and William Tewksbury, and there were two whippers, Mr. Stephenson being one. The run was southerly, and was to have been over a route eight miles in length, but the man who dragged the anise-seed bag was so hotly pressed by the dogs that within a mile of the finish he was compelled to climb a tree, and that brought the run to an abrupt finish. The riders took in numerous walls and fences, and there were some water tumps. Much $47,000 and for other expenses $2,511 39. The and fences, and there were some water jumps. Much

> EXPLAINING THE FUTILITY OF STRIKES. Chicago, Nov. 30.-The fifteenth annual convention of the Railway Passenger and Freight Conductors' Mutual Aid and Benefit Association began here yes-

President J. H. Snyder, of the Michigan Central road, delivered a short address, in which he gave a good account of the work and condition of the as-sociation. Frank Champlin delivered the annual ad-On the subject of strikes and lockouts, Mr. Champlin said their futility was emphasized in a recent report issued by the Bureau of Statistics on labor troubles in the United States for a space of six years. From 1881 to 1887 there occurred 22,288 strikes, in which 1,323,203 men were engaged. The losses the strikers amounted to $51,814,723 and to the employers $30,701,553. These strikes resulted in a loss of employment to 30,000 men. Labor troubles not to be profitably settled by strikes and lockouts. He spoke of the apparent abatement of hostility to rallroad interests in State legislation, and predicted number of members has increased from 1,361 to 1,467 terviewed yesterday. He was downcast and wept bitterly when to him. A. Hummel, his counsel, said that

MR. GIBBENS DEFENDS HIS BOARD.

GIVE IT MORE POWER, HE SAYS, AND ALL

WILL BE WELL. Commissioner Gibbens, of the Board of Electrical Control, was seen by a Tribune reporter yesterday. When asked for his opinion of the presentment of the Grand Jury in the Feeks case, he said: "The Board of Electrical Control is not at all affected by the finding of the Grand Jury, because the Board believes that the jury was ignorant of the law and facts relating to the work of the Board, the condition of the overhead wires, and the building of the subways. The Grand Jury took its information from hostile to the Board. These were ex-Mayor Hewitt and the electric lighting companies. members of the Board had no chance to testify, and the conclusions are those of a 'star chamber' investigation. A short time ago ex-Mayor Hewitt declared before a convention of electric light men, at the Hotel Brunswick, that it was impossible to operate high-tension currents underground. This view was adopted

"A presentment founded on such evidence will not hinder the Board from proceeding with the work which has been intrusted to it by the Legislature, any more than that convention hindered it. "I heartfly agree with the Grand Jury's conclusion that all excavating in the streets should be under public control, and that there should be but one sub-Last year I appeared before a committee of the Assembly and advocated the passage of just such a "I cannot agree with the strictures of the Grand Jury upon the Board of Electrical Control. I believe the efforts of the Board to place the wires underground have been remarkably successful, considering the opposition met from the electrical companies and certain of the local authorities. The power of the Board is purely judicial, and their regulations can only be carried out by these local authorities. The contest between the Board and the electric companies has been bitter, and the companies have had the aid of the courts and authorities much of the time. Still we can point with pride to the most complete system of subways in the world, to a mileage of underground wire in operation greater than that of any other city, and to the removal from the streets of more than organized in 1884, is an available foundation. Resone-third of the poles existing at the time of the organization of the Board.

Board culminated when we insisted that they should not use badly insulated wires. In spite of our notice they used them and killed Feeks. These wires would have been cut down by the Commissioner of Public Works and Feeks's death rendered impossible had not the courts interfered.

"The remedy for the existing evils is not to be found in changing Commissioners, but in giving the Board greater power conveyed to language so clear that no court will interfere with its exercise.

"The Grand Jury cettsures us for not pushing the work on the subways fast enough. As to this, the contractors are known to be among the most reputable in the city. They are pushing the work as rapidly as is consistent with good results, and are employing all the labor available. Considering the obstacles met with and the bad weather they have accomplished wonders."

It was rumored yesterlay that a bill was being drawn up looking to the removal of the present Commissioners of Electrical Control and the appointment of three practical electrical engineers in their stead.

ASSAULTED FOR INSULTING A WOMAN.

JAMES HEDDERMANN FATALLY WOUNDED BY CHARLES SANDS FOR SPEAKING DISRE-

SPECTFULLY TO HIS HALF-SISTER. James Heddermann, the 'longshoreman of No. 502 York Hospital insensible early on Friday morning was in a precarious condition yesterday, and the sur-geons thought he would die from his injury, a fracture of the skull. The police learned that he was hurt on Thanksgiving night by Charles Sands, a laborer living in the same house with him. Heldermann was drunk and insulted Sands's half sister. Miss Eilen Devlin, whom he encountered in the hallway. She escaped from him and told Sands what had occurred. Sands went down stairs and returned in a few minutes. That man won't trouble you any more," he said to he girl. A stone with blood stalus on it was found in the yard after Heddermann was sent to the sands was arrested on Friday night, and he was committed without ball to await the result of Heddermann's injuries. Miss Devlin told her story in the Jefferson Market Police Court yesterday, and was then sent to the House of Detention for Witnesses.

WANTING A DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE. The shipping interest on the Pacific Coast recently resumed the agitation of the question of having Department of Commerce as a branch of the Administration and communicated to President Harrison the advisability of referring to it in his message to Congress. Since then the shipping interests on the Ab lantic Coast and the lakes have discussed the matter and Congress is to be appealed to establish such a deand Congress is to be appropriate partment with a Cabinet officer as chief, to foster the ocean-carrying trade. The Maritime Association recently adopted resolutions in the form of a memorial to Congress for such an act. F. W. Houghton, the secretary, said yesterday:

"The coming Congress will doubtless act for the restoration of our merchant marine. A comprehensive method will be to create a Department of Commerce empowered to control not only ocean shipping, but sons for enlarging its scope are more conclusive than those that induced the last Congress to erect the Agri-The final effort of the companies to resist the cultural Bureau into a Department. By merging to Board culminated when we insisted that they should gether the management of both interstate and foreign commerce, harmony will be promoted between the interior States and those on the coast. It will simplify the governmental sorvice by unifing many bureaud duplicating work in various Departments. It will be come the care of a member of the Cabinet to foster and protect the interests uniting centres of production and consumption. A Department of Commerce here will doubtless be as effective as in those countries which have enriched their people by careful supervision of their commercial interests."

AN UGLY LOOK ABOUT THIS PAILURE. THE CLERK NOT GUILTY OF EMBEZZLEMENT.

Frank E. Morse, a lime commission merchant at No. 7
Coenties Silp, on July 17 last caused the arrest of William H. Grimke, who had formerly been his bookkeeper, on a charge of embezzlement. The examination was conducted at the Tombs Police Court yesterday before Justice # was off the Cape of Good Hope, the cook locked himself in the galley. He would not leave the galley when ordered to do so and began firing shots from a large revolver. Between the shots he attempted to break through the deck and reach some explosives which were stored beneath it. The captain and matea after consulting with the crew, armed themselves and fired several shots into the galley. The cook was found to be dead when the galley-door was opened. The examination was adjourned until Tuesday.
